

WHAT VACCINES DO I NEED TO TRAVEL?

It is possible some countries to request at the border points the documents certifying the travel vaccinations.

Vaccines for travelers include:

1. Basic vaccines, included in the national vaccination schedule, which require booster doses (to refresh the immune memory).
2. Vaccines recommended before travel to certain countries and regions: typhoid fever vaccine, hepatitis A, hepatitis B, meningitis, chickenpox, dengue fever, Japanese encephalitis.
3. Mandatory vaccines, according to the International Sanitary Regulations: the vaccine against yellow fever, against poliomyelitis.

The number of doses required and the post-vaccination immune response vary depending on the type of vaccine.

The list of countries for which compulsory vaccinations are required is regularly updated by the WHO.

Find out about the types of vaccines or prophylactic medications that need to be given before or during your trip.

The vaccination schedule for travelers should be customized according to:

- vaccination history,
- the country being visited,
- type and duration of the trip.

- Vaccination will be given 4 weeks before the trip or, in case of emergency, right before it.
- For this, you can contact an international vaccination office.
- The vaccination will be registered on the international vaccination certificate and will accompany the other travel documents..
